The Communist Party of Nepal was one of the two major communist parties in Nepal from 1991 to 2018. The party was formed in January 1991 with the unification of the Communist Party of Nepal and the Communist Party of Nepal. The CPN led four governments: from 1994 to 1995 under Man Mohan Adhikari, from 2009 to 2011 under Madhav Kumar Nepal, in 2011 under Jhala Nath Khanal, and from 2015 to 2016 under KP Sharma Oli. The party was also a junior partner in five coalition governments: in 1997 under L

Communist Party of Nepal (Unified) - Wikipedia
The Nepal Communist Party's rank and file are worried the confrontation may split the party. Should that happen, they would be deprived of the power, prestige and financial gains that the party's control of the government has brought. They are scrambling for a 'unity' formula. But long-term 'unity' in a communist party is hard to come by.

The duel within the Nepal Communist Party
The Communist Party of Nepal (Maoist), or CPN (M), was founded by Pushpa Kamal Dahal—also known as Prachanda ("Fierce")—in 1994, as a result of a split within the Communist Party of Nepal (Unity Centre). Many Nepalese were not even aware of the group's existence until February 1996, when the CPN (M) launched a guerrilla war that shook the nation.

Communist Party of Nepal (Unified Marxist Leninist)
The situation in Nepal now is different than it was in 2009, and all the wildest dreams of Prachanda did not come true "in five years' time" as he had anticipated, but another shocking development has taken place with the recent merger of the UCPN(MC) and the CPN(UML) to form the Nepal Communist Party (NCP), and claim a super-majority in the government. This new situation must be reevaluated, and all its intricacies understood and thoroughly investigated, but nonetheless this open ...
